CLAIM: Evidence claims require an observable source anchor.

CONCEPT: source anchoring

REASONING: An anchor permits a reader to recover the supporting passage independently.

LIMITATION: An anchor proves location, not the truth of the claim.

PRINTED PAGE: A-1

CLAIM: A paraphrase must preserve the source qualification.

CONCEPT: qualified paraphrase

REASONING: Removing a qualifier changes the proposition and overstates the evidence.

LIMITATION: Equivalent wording may still be disputed by a domain reviewer.

CONCEPT: page identity

REASONING: Front matter and custom numbering can separate printed labels from file order.

LIMITATION: Some documents omit printed labels entirely.

CLAIM: Reference confidence must fall when extraction is incomplete.

CONCEPT: bounded confidence

REASONING: Incomplete text prevents a complete comparison between the draft and source.

LIMITATION: Lower confidence does not identify which missing sentence matters.
