

B-01

CLAIM: A concept label summarizes the role of a passage.

CONCEPT: concept identification

REASONING: The label groups the passage by function rather than copying its wording.

LIMITATION: A passage can legitimately support more than one concept.

PRINTED PAGE: 11

B-02

CLAIM: Reasoning links evidence to a conclusion through explicit warrants.

CONCEPT: argument warrant

REASONING: Making the warrant explicit exposes assumptions that can be reviewed.

LIMITATION: Not every warrant is stated by the source author.

PRINTED PAGE: 12

CLAIM: Quotation and paraphrase require separate provenance records.

CONCEPT: reference mode

REASONING: A quotation preserves exact words while a paraphrase records a semantic transformation.

LIMITATION: Both modes can still misrepresent surrounding context.

B-04

CLAIM: Conflicting sources should remain visible in a formal report.

CONCEPT: source disagreement

REASONING: Visible disagreement prevents a synthesized conclusion from appearing unanimous.

LIMITATION: The presence of disagreement does not decide which source is stronger.

B-05

CLAIM: A reference audit must bind findings to the current source bytes.

CONCEPT: hash-bound audit

REASONING: Content hashes reveal whether cited material changed after analysis.

LIMITATION: A hash cannot establish authorship or publication quality.
